POKAGON BAND OF POTAWATOMI INDIANS ELECTS MATTHEW WESAW AS CHAIRMAN

The Pokagon Band of Potawatomi Indians issued the following press release on July 21 announcing that Matthew Wesaw was elected as its Tribal Council Chairman during the Tribe's general election on Saturday, July 14. During the election, Kelly Curran was elected Secretary, Colin Wesaw as Elders Representative, and Gary Morseau, Sr. as Member-at-Large.

As Chairman, Wesaw will also serve as Chairman and CEO of the Pokagon Gaming Authority Board, which oversees the Band's casino properties including Four Winds New Buffalo®, Four Winds Hartford®, Four Winds Dowagiac® and Four Winds South Bend®. This marks his third successful election as Chairman, the first time 2008 and again in 2012. In October 2013, he announced his retirement from the Council to become the Executive Director of the Michigan Department of Civil Rights. At that time, current Chairman John P. Warren was chosen in a special election to serve out the remainder of the term and was re-elected in 2015.

Other members of the 11-member Tribal Council who were not up for re-election are Vice-Chairman Bob Moody, and Members-at-Large Steve Winchester, Becky Price, Andy Jackson, and Alex Wesaw.

FIREKEEPERS ANNOUNCES HOTEL EXPANSION

The Nottawaseppi Huron Band of the Potawatomi, the owners of FireKeepers Casino Hotel, announced the expansion of its hotel on Monday, July 23. A second guest tower is being built to accommodate an increasing demand for rooms. The goal of the expansion is to attract more patrons from throughout the Midwest, along with new and larger conventions and business meetings.

Occupancy at the hotel has exceeded 95 percent for the last year, making it a challenge for retail guests and larger group businesses to reserve rooms, according to the tribe. FireKeepers Casino Hotel opened its 243-room hotel tower in December 2012.

"Today's announcement is the first step in the process, as we secure architects and construction management," Jamie Stuck, chairman of the NHBP Tribal Council, said in a press release. "This is a key step in our Strategic Plan for FireKeepers to provide for future generations of our tribe. With more rooms and potentially more meeting space, FireKeepers will be able to market and attract guests from greater distances, bringing new visitors to the area and boosting the local economy."

FireKeepers has yet to announce a groundbreaking date, along with details including its budget, additional jobs, number of rooms, and amenities. Additional information will become available as the project progresses, the company said.
